

HMC Premedical expands its presence in the biomedical sector by acquiring 100% of AMS Group

The Bisi Family and Vita Europe reach a strategic agreement for the growth of the HMC Group.

HMC (Healthcare, Medical devices & Components) Group was founded in 1997 by Giuseppe Bisi in the heart of the Mirandola Biomedical District, one of the most important innovation hubs worldwide.

Guided by the mission “We Help Health”, HMC is committed every day to being a valuable partner for its clients, contributing to improving people’s health.

The organization consists of two main Business Units:

HMC Device, which develops and distributes proprietary medical devices for patients requiring artificial nutrition (enteral nutrition) and for those with respiratory conditions (non-invasive ventilation).

HMC Manufacturing, offering vertical services to medical and pharmaceutical partners, from design to contract manufacturing of customized products.

HMC is now continuing its growth strategy by acquiring AMS Group S.r.l., a company based in San Pietro Viminario (Padua), active in pain therapy, neuromodulation and spinal surgery.

Founded in the mid-1990s, AMS Group has built a solid reputation within the Italian and European biomedical landscape, standing out for the quality of its solutions and its innovative approach to clinical training and research & development.

With this acquisition,” says Andrea Bisi, CEO of HMC Premedical S.p.A., “we further strengthen our presence in the Italian and European biomedical sector. AMS Group brings important technical know-how and an innovation-driven culture perfectly aligned with HMC’s values. This represents a strategic step that allows us to expand and consolidate our range of medical devices, creating new opportunities for growth and value for the market.

“Becoming part of the HMC Premedical Group,” comments Giovanni De Polo, CEO of AMS Group S.r.l., “represents a great opportunity for development. We share the same vision: innovating to improve patients’ quality of life. This integration will allow us to enhance our experience in minimally invasive surgery and clinical training, bringing it to a larger and more structured group.”

The integration between HMC Premedical S.p.A. and AMS Group S.r.l. strengthens the group’s position among the leading private players in the Italian biomedical sector, expanding the range of technologies and devices and creating an industrial and commercial platform focused on innovation, training and people’s health.
